

Amy Hansen, former business development specialist, was promoted to Director of Marketing. Amy has over 30 years of experience in leading teams, business development, and marketing. Amy is helping to elevate the Chief Strategy Office/Marketing team's return on investment by evolving By Light's internal and external brand awareness. Using her creative expertise, Amy is developing and delivering fresh concepts across the By Light enterprise for print and digital marketing materials.

By Light's Chief Strategy Office is assembling transformative talent who yield new and disruptive ideas to maturation. The pool of talent along with By Light's steadfast processes is producing cutting-edge technology to solve our customers' most challenging issues. The team is also producing modern design concepts and messaging to highlight By Light's products and solutions across all industry markets.

By Light CEO, Bob Donahue says, "The CSO provides a critical tool to drive digital transformation and innovation across the entire enterprise. The team's positive impact has already demonstrated tremendous value with the standardization and optimization of our DevSecOps software development efforts that includes the creation of an industry-leading development cloud platform to effectively meet the new emerging 'Code Challenges' that are becoming a frequent component in large software procurements."
